Captain Tsubasa: Rise of New Champions is a 3D soccer simulation in which each of the 31 clubs from Japan's J League compete in the role of their historical team. The goal is to play out your club's unique story as a team and the ultimate goal is to rise up the national rankings by dominating your conference. When Japan's top ten divisions are renamed into League A, B, and C, the J. League has been renamed to the Japan Soccer League (JSL) and is divided into 3 conferences (West, Central, and East). The 3rd and 4th tier professional leagues of Japan are renamed into Division 1 and 2. An array of new third and fourth tier soccer clubs emerge with the goal to win promotion to the JSL. Captain Tsubasa: Rise of New Champions is one of the first sports games which feature the "simulation in real time" method. This means that players can be controlled in the game but they're actually controlled by a real soccer player. So they could act as if they're playing on the official Japan Soccer League field but in reality it will be the field of the JSL. In addition to actually competing as a team, players can also play multiple games at a time in the form of Versus and Online Versus matches. Fans can also interact with the teams via online message board, club news, player information, and more. Key Features: - 3D, realistic ball handling - Dynamic 3D ball physics - 3D TV presentation - 3D match commentary - Fully customizable controls - Stadium customizations - International tournaments - Local tournaments - 3D player models - 3D stadium customizations - Matchday menus and activities - New club system - Dynamic story progression - 3D environment and setting change (realistic to the season) - Full online match (Versus) and tournament (Open Versus) support - Dynamic player statistics - Match replays - Match highlight reels - Match center stage - 3D interactive match commentary - Cutting edge visual effects - Biography of each club - Equipment customization - Player customizations - 3D view of player profiles - FIFA 09 features (Controls) - Liverpool features (FIFA 08) - 3D player appearance - 3D stadium - 3D players - 3D stadiums - 3D goalkeepers - 3D clubs - 3D fans - 3D commentator

Horses movement is governed by the correct terrain the animal has access to and the number of squares it is allowed to pass. They will try to avoid obstacles and travel over as many free squares as they can. This ensures that the horse is always in contact with the battlefield and helps to ensure an optimum movement rate. Horses have a stamina bar and getting an animal injured will reduce its health. This will result in the horse falling down and becoming unable to perform its assigned mission for the day. If this happens, the horse can be brought back to service by giving it first aid or getting it treated at a veterinary station. The horses will try to follow a command from its rider. A difficult command will result in the animal running away. Sometimes a horse may not follow a command to load or unload the cannon being dragged by it. While the driver is never distracted in combat, the error rate will increase as the vehicle gets overloaded with guns and ammunition. In cases of extreme issues, the animal might fall down or even run into the enemy. Driving a car is very similar. It has the same stamina bar, but because the engine is capable of providing more power, it may actually outperform the horse. Vehicles will have to listen to the combat commands of the driver, just like horses do. Drivers have the option to buy extra armour and other items to make their vehicles more durable. When hit and disabled, they can be picked up and sent to the field hospital. Vehicles can now fall into sunken lakes or water holes if not used in time. The driver is allowed to access the map from time to time to plan vehicle deployment. If he can't do this, the vehicle will sit idle waiting for his return. The Anti-Air Force (AAF) In the 3-nation scenario players can decide to declare an Air War. When activated all aircraft in the entire scenario become enemy aircraft and start attacking ground and naval units. They can move to any hex on the map and strike at ground or naval units without warning. Similarly, in battle ground units can be attacked from the air. Air units - some aircraft attack units, others will allow player to maneuver and trade fire from the air. AAF units are white, unless the nation has been ordered to black flag them. Foreign forces The 3-nation scenario will have similar bonuses to the Japanese or Chinese forces as most of the battlefield units are the same for all three nations. Some weapons have the additional cost of the version d41b202975

----- [Soundtrack] -----
Music:Jonny Lattimer - Found in the DeepThe song "Found in the Deep" by Jonny Lattimer was used to accompany the creation of this soundtrack. This song was chosen for the concept as it's great use of layered chord changes and a delicate yet profound harmonies. The song has also been used in several of our character videos to highlight what the chosen music is about.

----- Dream Chaser - DarklyA slow tempo melodic number. Great for what would seem to be a dark and moody intro or outro, as is the case here.

----- Joseph Kempson - Natures Way"Natures Way" is an instrumental composed by Joseph Kempson. This song represents the rich diversity of sounds and diversity of visual components that can come from earth. Lush landscapes and clouds with mountains and hills. The mysterious and beautiful Earth. -----

Joseph Kempson - GatewayThe instrumentation comes from playing the pedals and from using the effects of the guitar synth, pitch shifter, modulation effects, distortion and pitch bends. The pitch bends being used to represent Earths valleys and the pitch shifter being used to simulate the gas clouds. -----

----- Mark Loibl - Embrace The WavesEmbrace the Waves, the story of a ship, the simple old engine, a love for life, the reason to find one's self, the foundations of life.For those who have experienced this, with a guitar, a piano or a flute, they are one and the same: And that is what we are! This song has different meanings for all of us depending on what experiences we had, but we all share the same feelings of self discovery, of being able to find ourselves in this life and to find the beauty in the simple things.

----- XNIRL - Full EngineWe are able to create the sound of the engine while also letting you use the engine to create your own sound. By pressing the A button, we send a pulse to your guitar and the volume will increase. By pressing the D button, the volume will decrease. By pressing the Z button, we will add/remove a specific amount of delay.

What's new in Niko Through The Dream - Soundtrack:

"Hear me, Niko. I am your brother; yours alone. In time you will be as strong as me. We shall both take down the King. You and I. Together." Niko through a long dream. He's sitting on a bed. His collar is undone and his shirt is unbuttoned. He's got a lamp on his chest and the collar around his neck is covered in blood. His room is dark but in one corner is a little blue light coming from a lamp, making only a small portion of the room illuminate. Niko through his dream and the blue light shines on his face and shows the weakness of the wound. His eyes are open but in a daze. He starts to scoot towards the end of the bed and the blue light becomes brighter and brighter. He shakes his head and wakes up with a scream and slams his hand against the wall. "The King...It's after me. I know it." Niko says to himself, covered in sweat. He gets up and checks the door and nothing is in the halls. Niko wipes the sweat from his forehead and walks towards the window. The sun has not yet risen and in the distance he sees a black mass hanging in the sea with the waves crashing below it. Niko waves the black mass of the King's ship away as he looks at the ship and wants to get away from the place. Niko sees the big, red doors to the chapel and thinks they're the only way out of this place since they're usually locked in case of guests being hurt or ghosts. Niko walks over to the door and pulls on the handle, it's locked, Niko decides to try the next door he comes to. "This is where we enter the Forest of Neversink; the only way out. No portals are allowed here, no modern means of transport to get here, and no signs of life except us. This is where we enter." The priest continued. Priest could only imagine how many guests had journeyed through the Forest, how many wishing they could stay longer; how many wishing to never leave, or to go back to their lives.... "Who will I be tonight?" he asks himself. He walked forward and stood in front of the big red doors. The gates are beginning to open up and the bodies of the druids begin to form. Niko walked through the gates and into the city of the druids. "I am
